

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

The present invention discloses a startup procedure of optical drive after recording or erasing on an optical disc. After disc writing, startup procedure begins, a 5 chipset reads the recorded data on the disc directly using the track information and focus servo parameter in the memory. Thus, the invention reduces time spent in the reading procedure.